

MARITIME AND SAFETY TRAINING NSW

ABOUT US:

The New South Wales Fishing Industry Training Committee Ltd was incorporated back in 1984 consisting then and now of representatives from all sectors of the maritime and seafood industry, other educational bodies and associated government departments. Our prime role is that of education and training which in many cases underpins employment and the creation of new workplace opportunities.

We represent the entire NSW Seafood industries educational direction both state and nationally, working closely with other education providers ie NSW TAFE and Australian Maritime College. Government agencies ie .NSW Maritime, NSW Fisheries, NSW Food.

In order to serve the fishing/seafood/aquaculture sectors better, in 1999 the NSWFITC became a registered training provider and trading as NSW Seafood Industry Training began to roll out our new Seafood Training Package supporting the introduction of new apprentices/traineeships into this industry.

Long termed commitment to maritime safety and continued involvement with the delivery of maritime certificated programs has seen further progression, another new training identity was added, more suitable to the type of operations now conducted ie. 'Maritime and Safety Training NSW' and the introduction of Recreational maritime license programs and other short courses of interest to the general public. During the coming year we would also aim to introduce some of our maritime safety programs into some of the states high school activities.

We do look forward to your participation within any of our planned programs and activities and welcome your comments, we do listen and after all it's the only way we can improve our services.
